

FRANCISCO CUDELL

THE GLOBAL TRAVELER

A military background shaped Francisco's attitude

Francisco started off as a Military Academy Cadet in 1999, a choice he made himself. He graduated in Mechanical Engineering, started his career in Portugal and quickly moved around the world. South America, Africa and the Middle East have been his destinations. Francisco is currently an MBA student at Porto Business School, but over the past 4 years he has been working in the energy sector as Operations Manager for an international power company. His international experience allowed him to gain multicultural business experience and to manage complex projects and operations in particularly diverse environments.

FRANCISCO CUDELL
THE GLOBAL TRAVELER

Francisco is an extrovert person, but someone who needs his introspective time. When he's working, Francisco is outspoken and an extrovert. In his younger years he lived his most "wild period", travelling to more than 35 different countries on 5 different continents. After many years working abroad and spending time at airports and on planes, he would now rather spend some time with his family and be able to play with his daughter, seeing her running happily in their family home. There's nothing better than that.
